THE MARKET

Credit Unions and mutual Building Societies are the biggest players in Australian retail banking after the major banks. Collectively they are the fourth largest deposit taking force in Australia, after CBA, Westpac and ANZ. The sector holds more than $65 billion in combined assets and employs around 10,000 people. The sector plays a strong and important role in the Australian financial services market. They offer a full range of personal banking services, home loans, personal loans, transaction accounts and offer investment packages.

Credit Unions and mutual Building Societies differ from the banks in that they are owned by their members and are committed to the wellbeing of their members. They offer highly competitive loans rates, attractive savings rates and lower fees than other financial institutions. There is a strong community and member focus creating a friendly, companionable climate throughout the industry.

There are around 125 different institutions in the sector (116 Credit Unions and 9 Mutual Building Societies), operating around 1,240 branches within Australia. Over 20% (4.6 million) of the Australian population are members of either a mutual building society or credit union.

2010 AMINSTITUTE NATIONAL CONFERENCE & EXPO

The AMInstitute Conference and Expo is the focal point for credit union and mutual building society professionals nationally. The 2010 event (21-23 March) in Canberra is themed Investing in the Future - preparing for the opportunities that lie ahead and offers a great program of national and international speakers and is expected to attract up to 500 attendees for each day of the conference. The conference offers a mix of keynote, plenary sessions and social activities, providing a casual atmosphere that is perfect for getting to know delegates and marketing your product/service.

The Australasian Mutuals Institute (AMInstitute) National Conference & Exposition is the industry's largest and longest running event having been a major highlight within the sector for each of the past 30 years. This event attracts quality delegates, most of whom are industry leaders and decision makers. These decision makers cover the entire mutual banking industry and attend the exhibition over two days, allowing plenty of time to visit the 70 or so exhibition stands. The limited number of stands allows for a variety of quality exhibitors and prevents over duplication - thus generally provides a less competitive and a more friendly, interactive atmosphere which is characteristic of both the industry and the event.
