Topic: Emissions Trading - What is it and Why is it Relevant to Mutuals?

A panel of three experts all well qualified to address us on this important topic and to respond to your many questions, including;

- What is emissions trading and how might it work?
- Why is this necessary?
- What are the implications for consumers, business, the community and the economy?
- What is the relevance of this to the mutual sector – where are the risks and opportunities?

Rowan Dowland

Rowan is the General Manager Development at mecu and he was appointed as a member of the AL Gore Climate Change Project in 2007. mecu is the first credit union in the world to become a signatory to the UN's Environmental Program Statement by Financial Institutions on Sustainable Development and the Environment.

Sara Gipton

Sara is the CEO of Greenfleet – a not-for-profit forestry offset organisation which encourages organisations and individuals to reduce the greenhouse gases they produce and then to offset their remaining emissions through biodiverse forest planting.

Matthew Reddy

Matthew is the principal of Carbon Advantage and a consultant on carbon management and land conservation strategy to corporate Australia. Formerly, Matthew was the Managing Director of Landcare CarbonSMART – the not-for-profit carbon trading arm of Landcare Australia.
